Some Men Meet With One at the Tamarack

In Last Saturday's Accident.

Drunk and Disorderlies Before the Justice-Other Interesting Notes to Picase Our Readers.

The short item which appeared in Saturday's News only gave part of the facts in connection with the accident at North Tamarack; it was quite true there was no one in the cage which was pulled through the shafthouse, but unfortunately there was a cage with three men in it at 7.30 o'clock at the church. at the other end of the rope and that they were not killed is a miracle.

As most of our people know, in these vertical shafts one cage ascends as the other descends. One cage had been hoisted up to the 5th level for the purpose of dumping and, of course, the other cage had been correspondingly lowered. After a car of rock had been placed on the cage at the 5th level the three trammers, as is their wont, got into the cage and gave the signal to hoist, but by some mistake the engineer, who is a very steady and attentive man, unfortunately hoisted the wrong cage with the result as given in Saturday's News, but in doing so the other cage with the car of dirt and three men on it went thundering down the shaft several hundred feet. Fortunately the cage struck the pentice, which is a roof of heavy timbers built over a shaft, especially at a level below which a new sink is being made, which it smashed to smithereens and got caught. This, although it was a pretty hardshock, broke the fall and to the surprise of the men at the plat, at the bottom of, who scarcely knew what was coming, they saw the three men crawling from out the cage. The party at the bottom then went to the auxiliary shaft and rang the bell, that cage had no sooner reached the bottom and the men in it, than a piece of timber came thundering down the shaft which made the men vacate the cage and jump for the level as quickly as possible; not knowing what was the matter the men were afraid to give the signal to hoist, but after some delay one of the men, perhaps braver than the rest, took to the cage and was boisted to surface and when the shaft was found to be all right the whole of those underground were safely landed.

The editor well remembers Capt. John Daniell some years ago pointing out at one of the North Tamarack shafts some automatic arrangement which he said most positively would prevent just such an accident as this ever bappening, as when the cage reached above a certain height the engine would stop hoisting. Has this arrangement been done away with? Or was it out of working order? Again, what was the matter with the catches on the cage, were they too out of order? These are questions of importance, considering the hundreds of men who are daily entrusting their lives to a single rope controlled by one man. Ferhaps this is a case where the mining inspector might say whether there is any device known, that is not in use at our mines, that he could recommend.

Drunk and Disorderly.

Saturday and Sunday nights were bad times for drunks and disorderlies, as several cases were up in the local justice offices this morning, and more will be up this evening.

Officer Murphy had quite an experience with a couple of drunken men last night. Shortly after midnight white he was making his rounds he came upon two men who were just about able to walk and who were making a disturbance. The officer told them to stop the racket and go home, and they proceeded to do so. Shortly afterward be saw the same two men fighting each other. When he reached the place, one man had gone and the other told the officer he had been stabled in the fight. His coat was cut, evidently by a jack knile, but that was all the evidence of a stabbing affray. However, the officer got after the other man and chased him down to Pine street and after considerable trouble he succeeded in arresting him and getting him to the jail, where he and the man he stabbed spent the night.

This morning they were up before Justice Curtis, where they gave their names as Joyel Laaksonen and Alex Torma. Both pleaded guilty to b ing drunk and disorderly and Laaksonen paid a fine of $5 and costs, while Torma was assessed $10 and costs. Laaksonen did not wish to make a complaint against his friend for the stabbing affair, so the matter was dropped.

Knowledge s ways. A writer in the Chicago Record professes to know a man-not a Chicago man, but an Englishman-whose well known constitutional tardiness once saved his wife from hours of the most terrible anxiety.

At the time of the fair there was a terrible fire in one of the buildings-I think it was the cold storage. On the afternoon of the fire the man-he was an Englishman--had an appointment on the top floor of the doomed building. The fire broke out, if I'm not mistaken, about 2 o'clock. In a short time the building was pertially destroyed and several lives had been lost.

Some friends of the Englishman came to his wife at the Victoria hotel and broke gently to her the fact that the cold storage place was in ruins and that Harry had an appointment on the top floor that afternoon. "What time did the fire break out?" she asked.

They told her at 2 o'clock. "And for what hour was Harry's appointment?" Two o'clock, also.

"Oh, then, I'm not in the least alarmed!" she said, and serenely continued to knit. About 5 o'clock Harry turned up, having been delayed by the difficulty of getting transportation. He looked a little white. "By Jove, Dora," he re-marked, "I had a narrow shave this afternoon. She kissed him placidly. "You were to have been in the cold storage building at 2 o'clock, dear, and you didn't get there till nearly 3. Wasn't that it?" He gave a wondering assent.

"What a comfort it is, Harry, that you're always late!"

Then she resumed her knitting.

One Pound of Coal on a Steamship. The value of a pound of coal at different epochs of steamship evolution, as given by Mr. A. J. McGinnis, president of the Liverpool Engineering society, has been as follows: In 1840 a pound of coal propelled a displacement weight of .578 ton 8 knots; but the earning weight was only one-tenth of this, 90 per cent of the displacement representing the hull, machinery and fuel. In 1850, with iron vessels and the screw propeller, a displacement weight of .6 ton was propelled 9 knots by a pound of coal; but the proportion of cargo had risen to 27 per cent, or .16 ton. In 1860, with higher boiler pressure and the surface condenser, .82 ton displacement was propelled 10 knots, and the cargo was 33 per cent, or .27 ton. In 1870, after *he compound engine had come into use, 1.8 tons displacement was propelled 10 knots, and here the cargo formed 50 per cent of the whole, being .9 ton. In 1885 there were two classes of freight boats-the "tramp" propelled 8.4 tons displacement 8 1/2 knots, with 60 per cent, or 2 tens of cargo; at the same time the enormous cargo steamers of the north Atlantic were driving a displacement of 8.14 tons 12 knots, with 55 per cent, or 1.7 tons of cargo. On the modern express passenger steamers the cargo

MODERATE IN VOLUME

What Bradstreet's Says of the Condition of Trade.

NO BUSINESS REVIVAL THIS YEAR.

Jobbers and Wholesalers Agreed Upon That Point-Some Activity in Holiday Goods-Unsatisfactory Situation in the Iron and Steel Markets-Exports of Wheat and Flour-Failures for a Week -Firm Tone in Speculative Market.

New York, Dec. 7 .- Bradstreet's says: General trade continues in mederate volume, jobbers and wholesalers being agreed there will be no business revival this year. There is some activity in holiday goods. Rains and stormy weather south, and cold and severe weather west and northwest have checked traffic on interior country roads, and otherwise interfered with the distribution of merchandise except at some northwestern centers, where more seasonable weather has stimulated the demand for heavy textiles, clothing, hats and shoes. Throughout the central Mississippi valley there has been no increase in demand in wholesale lines, and at the south trade is characterized as dull. Jobbers of dry goods report that sales for future delivery have fallen off. Transactions in wool have fallen off, manufacturers buying as they receive orders.

Unsatisfactory Situation.

The situation in iron and steel is unsatisfactory with unsettling rumors as to the success of the steel pool, comparatively few sales of staple grades, and no likelihood of revival in demand prior to February. No material change is reported in prices for pork, print clothes and lumber, while those turpentine, tobacco, cotton, sugar, wheat and flour are all higher. Exports of wheat from both coasts of the United States this week, flour included as wheat, amounted to 3,653,160 bushels, as compared with 3,753,000 bushels last week, 3,156,600 bushels in the first week of December, 1895, 3,011,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 2,558,000 bushels in the week three years ago, and as compared with 4,404,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1892. Exports of Indian corn from both coasts of the United States this week amount to 1,768,000 bushels, as compared with 2,920,000 bushels last week, 1,867,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 1,271,-000 bushels two years ago, 1,169,000 bushels three years ago, and as compared with 566,000 bushels in the like week of 1892.

Business Failures.

There were 359 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, which is an increase of sixtythree as compared with last week, forty-four as compared with the corresponding week one year ago, thirty-seven as contrasted with the like week in 1894, but a falling off of twenty-four as compared with the number of business failures in the first week of December, 1893. The increase as com-pared with the like period in 1892 is ninety-four. A large properties of the increased number of failures opported from the middle and New gland states. There are forty-seven business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week, eleven more than last week, eight more than in the week a year ago, fourteen more than in the corresponding week two years ago, and nineteen more than in the like week of Financial Review.

Bradstreet's financial review says: A firmer tone has been exhibited in the speculative share market during the present week. The quality of the transactions has not improved. In the main they are still the work of professional traders, and public participation, as gauged by the inactivity of commission brokers, is almost entirely lacking. On the other hand, liquidation of long holdings of stocks has practically ceased, and the bears find their efforts to depress prices by artificial manipulation does not bring out real stocks, but simply increases the short interest. The latter had, in fact, appeared to be growing excessive, and the position of the market had been one in which its liability to become oversold is an important factor.

Closed Their Speculative Lines. It would seem that some of the larger bear interests have closed their speculative lines on that side of the account, and that so far as operations of that sort are concerned they are due to the disposition which the board room element and the smaller class of professional speculators always exhibit to sell the market short when dullness is the pronounced feature. The more hopeful feeling which animates the market seems to be due to a revision of speculative opinion regarding the probable tenor and effects of the coming presidential message, particularly in its treatment of the Cuban question. The current reports from Washington indicate that it will, so far as concerns this matter, be a conservative document, which the street construes as favorable to the market. Uncertainty About Congress. There is, of course, uncertainty about the course of congress on the Cuban and other matters, but a feeling has grown that the short session may not be productive of any very positive action, though the larger speculative interests, which, as stated above, have ceased to act on the bear side, show an indisposition to adopt any positive course until congress meets and there is some definite basis on which to judge of its policy. It must, however, be not-ed that this has not deterred certain ed that this has not deterred certain interests from instituting bullish manipulations in their own specialties, more particularly in stocks in which the existence of any considerable volume of bear contracts afforded opportunity for marking up prices on the shorts.

Thief Shot and Killed.

Chicago, Dec. 7.-Albert C. Worms, a veterinary surgeon, living at 254 Ra-cine avenue shot and killed a thief Friday night. At 10:30 o'clock Worms deday night. At 19:30 o clock worms de-tected a man in the act of stealing a horse blanket from his carriage, and after giving chase he fired the fatal shot. Upon examination by the police it was learned taht the dead man was Joseph Kramer, 1560 Clybourn avenue. Kramer was 20 years old and of late had been out of employment. He formerly was a cigarmaker.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Amstrong & Bro., the oldest firm in Eldora, Ark., dealers in general supplies, have failed. Liabilities, $60,000; assets about the same. The stock was sold to Richie & Co. and H. P. Smead of Camden. The firm did a large credit business with cotton planters.

The fatality from the blizzard learned of near Pierre, S. D., is the death of Dr. H. M. Kennedy, who was on a sheep ranch fifty miles west of there. His body was found and brought into Fort Pierre. An old German named Koch, who lived in the south part of the county, is also reported missing, and it is feared he is dead on the prairie.

The J. E. Owens Drug company of Kansas City has failed. The bank holds notes of the firm aggregating $11,250. The will of Mrs. Emira Forbes of Anderson, Ind., leaves her entire estate to the Christian church of that city. It is a large gum.

It may not be generally known that the story of Enoch Arden, as it stands in the poem, is in every detail a true one. It was related to Lord Tennyson by the late Mr. Woolner, the wellknown sculpter, whose widow has the manuscript of the story.

Abraham Zwahlen, a respected Swiss of Mount Vernon, Ills., was found dead in his bed. Investigation shows that heart disease caused his death.

Peter Layman, a dairyman of Akron, O., drew $525 from a bank to meet a payment on his farm. Burglars entered his house and secured the money.

On the evidence of his father, John Taylor was sentenced at Pana, Ills., to the Chester penitentiary for larceny. He broke into his father's shop and stole iron, which he sold for money to buy liquor.

Mr. Clarence Cook, in an address the other day, declared New York the ugliest city in the world.

Train Robber Sentenced.

Nevada, Mo., Dec. 7.-W. B. Morris, on trial for train robbery, pleaded guilty Saturday and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, the lowest penal sentence under the Morris was the leader of a gang of highwaymen who held up Conductor Robert C. Trickett at Nassau Junction January last and robbed Trickett and his freight crew. Trickett was shot in the face.

Meanest Kind of a Scoundrel.

Chicago, Dec. 7 .- John Suter, a teamster employed to deliver coal to the poor of Cook county, is locked up at the central station, charged with lar-ceny as bailee. He has confessed to the police that, instead of delivering coal according to directions, he sold it, and in this manner has, since Saturlast disposed of seven tons, a month's supply for fourteen families.

Gunboat Vicksburg Launenen. Bath, Me., Dec. 7.-The new gunboats Vicksburg and Newport were launched from the yards of the Bath Iron works Saturday afternoon before an immense crowd. Court Pests.

The pests of the small courts are the importance attached to etiquette and the thin skinnedness and jealousy of the courtiers. Great pests of all courts, but chiefly of the greater, are the hosts of fussy people, humbugs of all kinds and projectors who want to secure royal patronage as a means of advertisement. They are much more likely to get it than the deserving because their instinct tells them how to make their approach. Queens are now pestered all over Europe with individuals who imagine money is to be made in getting up unions to secure artistic and literary employment for women. The poor weak things would go to the wall if they were not brought into droves. The larger the drove the greater the number of subscriptions and the better for the drover. The Empress Frederick is ready to help feminine unions, but for handicrafts requiring trained skill and talent, and not to get poor scribbling or painting shot into the market. The queens of Sweden and Denmark are of the same mind. But the queen of Sweden likes to patronize authoresses on the side of religion and good morals. The empress of Russia feels her way. My maid of honor tells me that the Prince of Wales' daughters are credited in northern courts with shrewdness and insight into the motives

The most pleasant court for maids of honor is that of St. Petersburg. The Countess G. was there on a visit and wondered whether there were limits to the liberties of the coartiers. One sex is as free as the other. The ladies smoke, skate, dance, take sentimental drives in the long daylike summer nights, flirt with grand dukes or with no matter whom, throw themselves into love, diplomatic, palace and even political intrigues. The latter may lead to Siberia. But the gambling spirit is strong in them. Danger gives zest to enterprise and forbidden fruit is sweetest .- Paris Cor. London Truth.

Dialect Shadings.

"If you want to study dialect shadings, take a half dozen trips on one of the big consolidated cars," said a prominent lawyer to a Cleveland Post reporter. "You'll hear some of the queeres? attempts at pronunciation you ever listened to. Yes, from the conductors. I've got so schooled in the different accents that I can tell in a moment when a new conductor is aboard. I understand a good many of these fare takers are Canadians. If that is so, Canada must be as full of dialects as the Austrian empire. My favorite test is in the word transfer.' In six trips I heard it pronounced six different ways. Let me try to reproduce them:

- 'Transfras.' "Trainsfers."
- "Trunsfurs."
- "Trawnsfers." "Trinsfars." "'Drunsvers."

"The last example emanates, I am inclined to think, from an official of German descent. All the other conductors were unmistakably from some portion of the British possessions. Listen the next time you go aboard a motor and see if you can connect the dialect artist with his original nationality."
